6 REASONS CHILDREN NEED TO PLAY OUTSIDE

Here’s something really simple you can do to improve your child’s chance of future health and success: make sure he spends plenty of time playing outside.

There are many ways in which this generation’s childhood is different from that of the last generation, but one of the most abrupt contrasts is the degree to which it is being spent indoors. There are lots of reasons, including the marked increase in time spent interacting with electronic devices, the emphasis on scheduled activities and achievements, concerns about sun exposure — and, for many families, the lack of safe outdoor places to play.

It’s not just children; adults are spending less time outdoors as well.

Here are six crucial ways playing outside helps children:

1. Sunshine. Yes, sun exposure — especially sunburns — can increase the risk of skin cancer. But it turns out that our bodies need sun. We need sun exposure to make vitamin D, a vitamin that plays a crucial role in many body processes, from bone development to our immune system. Sun exposure also plays a role our immune system in other ways, as well as in healthy sleep — and in our mood. Our bodies work best when they get some sunshine every day.

2. Exercise. Children should be active for an hour every day, and getting outside to play is one way to be sure that happens. They can certainly exercise indoors, but sending them outdoors — especially with something like a ball or a bike — encourages active play, which is really the best exercise for children.

3. Executive function. These are the skills that help us plan, prioritize, troubleshoot, negotiate, and multitask; they are crucial for our success. Creativity falls in here, too, and using our imagination to problem-solve and entertain ourselves. These are skills that must be learned and practiced — and to do this, children need unstructured time. They need time alone and with other children, and to be allowed (perhaps forced) to make up their own games, figure things out, and amuse themselves. Being outside gives them opportunities to practice these important life skills.

4. Taking risks. Children need to take some risks. As parents, this makes us anxious; we want our children to be safe. But if we keep them in bubbles and never let them take any risks, they won’t know what they can do — and they may not have the confidence and bravery to face life’s inevitable risks. Yes, you can break an arm from climbing a tree — and yes, you can be humiliated when you try to make a friend and get rejected. But that doesn’t mean you shouldn’t try; the lessons we learn from failure are just as important as those we learn from success.

5. Socialization. Children need to learn how to work together. They need to learn to make friends, how to share and cooperate, how to treat other people. If they only interact in very structured settings, such as school or sports teams, they won’t — they can’t — learn everything they need to know.

6. Appreciation of nature. So much of our world is changing, and not for the better. If a child grows up never walking in the woods, digging in soil, seeing animals in their habitat, climbing a mountain, playing in a stream, or staring at the endless horizon of an ocean, they may never really understand what there is to be lost. The future of our planet depends on our children; they need to learn to appreciate it.

7. So try it. Do what our parents did: send your children outside. Even better, go with them. And do everything you can to be sure that every child can do the same.

COASTAL CLEANUP DAY

Coastal Cleanup Day is the world’s largest annual volunteer event to protect our planet. In 2018, this international event of just over 70,000 volunteers picked up 800,000 pounds of trash at 1000 different sites around the world.

In Alameda, in only one morning over 400 volunteers carefully collected 1.5 tons of trash from our shorelines and marinas, where much of the waste was very small, single-use plastic pollution like cigarette butts, straws, and food wrappers. This sort of pollution is regularly generated on our streets and washes out to the San Francisco Bay where it then adds to the Great Pacific Garbage Patch, a roiling soup of tiny plastic trash that threatens the survival of marine ecosystems around the world.

Great Pacific Garbage Patch, 2018
Get counted: this year’s Alameda Coastal Cleanup Day is scheduled for Saturday, September 21, 2019; and will go from 8:30 a.m. to 12:00 p.m. The main site for walk-up registration will be at Crown Beach at Shore Line Drive at Park Street, but there will also be satellite cleanup sites announced in early September at Alameda’s Marinas and other beachfront locations. Do your part on event day to reduce single-use plastic pollution by bringing your own reusable bucket, gloves, and refillable water bottle. Please wear closed-toe shoes, sunscreen, and children under 18 must be accompanied by an adult. This event is co-produced by the City of Alameda, Alameda County Industries, and the East Bay Regional Park District.

Young Rembrandts: Art and Cartooning
Ages 6 - 11
Back to school is in full swing at Young Rembrandts, as we present drawing and cartoon lessons that encompass a fascinating world of color, pattern, and design. Students will strengthen their marker rendering skills as we introduce our colorists to warm and cool colors. Ordinary, school items are brought to life as we illustrate and personify inanimate objects. Another challenging lesson will help our students visualize sounds, and what’s a cartooning class without learning how to draw expressions?

They draw on both Nahualt culture and beliefs as well as Biblical accounts of the creation of the universe. This exuberant project involved artists, volunteers, and municipal leaders. Advance Directive for Dementia: For and Against
Monday, November 18, 1:30PM, Dining Room 2
Advance directives allow competent adults to authorize an “agent” to accept or refuse life-extending treatment if, due to illness or injury, they cannot do so themselves. Such directives also allow for choice of doctors and other details of medical treatment. A new and troubling question is whether an advance directive may legally require that nutrition and hydration be withdrawn in the event of severe Alzheimer’s disease or other forms of dementia. Should an individual’s current competent self be able to request that nutrition and hydration be cut off for their future demented self? Professor Benjamin, Ph.D., professor emeritus of philosophy, will explore the question in detail, including the medical, legal, and moral issues it raises. Here are 21st century complexities worthy of our attention. This CSUEB Scholar-OLLI program is sponsored by the MSCAB.
